

Ream Lazaro Safety Consulting, LLC

Ream's History

Ream has over 40 years of transit training, safety, and security experience. Ream attended a boarding school in the Himalayan Mountains of India and graduated high school there. Subsequently, he served as a Sergeant in the US Army and graduated college on the GI Bill. Ream began his transit career as a Training and Safety Supervisor at the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA). He moved on to serve as a Training and Safety Manager at New Jersey Transit (NJT), then was the Human Resource Development Manager at Utah Transit Authority (UTA). He left UTA for a career as a transit safety and security consultant. His clients over the years have included individual urban and rural transit agencies, State Departments of Transportation (DOT), and state and national transit associations. He was the contractor lead for the Federal Transit Administration's (FTA) Bus Safety and Security Program. Ream provides safety and security training on behalf of the National Transit Institute (NTI), Transportation Safety Institute (TSI), and Community Transportation Association of America (CTAA). Ream coauthored several Transit Cooperative Research Program (TCRP) publications. He has supported FTA safety management projects at multiple large and small transit agencies.

Ream's Services

His most popular services include:

- Agency Safety Plans – Assist in developing and continuously updating Agency Safety Plans, so they comply with evolving federal requirements.
- Safety Management Systems (SMS) Operations Plans – Assist in creating SMS Operations Plans that bring Agency Safety Plans to life and detail an agency's SMS procedures and protocols.
- Safety Culture Consulting and Training – Focuses on positive safety culture strategies to help create and maintain a safety culture that supports ownership of safety across the transit agency.
- Safety Management Consulting and Training – Focuses on transit agency and contractor operations and maintenance subject matter experts and safety and training staff.
- Security Consulting and Training – Includes, but is not limited to, bus operator assaults, conflict de-escalation, crisis management, security awareness, and emergency preparedness strategies.

Ream tailors his services based on a transit agency's needs, size, and operating characteristics. His clients include large urban, small urban, and rural transit agencies and State DOTs nationwide. He primarily delivers services virtually, reducing the costs to you by eliminating overhead and travel expenses.
